

BARRE DAILY TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Barre as Second Class Matter.

TUESDAY, MARCH 2, 1909.

Published every week-day afternoon.
 Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.
 Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

5,015

All over for another year.

Mayor Robins was the least ruffled of all to-day.

No, Ethel, you are not engaged; Father Roosevelt says so.

We trust that Governor Prouty voted to-day before leaving for Washington.

Fact is, there is no closed season on deer in Vermont; forty-seven were killed last month, mostly by dogs, however.

The ships of the American battle fleet now feel like the sweet girl graduate a week after the pomp of getting her diploma.

Vermont's March meeting ought not to distract the attention of the world from that minor affair in Washington later this week.

Large bequests are generally acceptable. Not so, however, with Attorney General Bonaparte's bequest of unfinished legal prosecutions to Wickersham, his successor.

The Newport Express and Standard makes the very sensible remark that the Vermont papers which are anxious to have P. W. Clement dead politically would do well to keep right still and thus refuse to advertise Mr. Clement.

DRINK NOT THE HARD CIDER.

A Rutland county farmer was recently placed on probation after being sentenced to ten months in the house of correction for "discharging a firearm without malice" at his hired man, it being argued as an extenuating circumstance that the farmer was under the influence of hard cider at the time of the assault. If the punishment was mitigated in all crimes which were induced by hard cider, Vermont would not have so full a prison population by a good deal. Hard cider conduces to a pugna spirit's outward manifestations as no other liquor does, and its use brings a great many people into trouble; and oftentimes they do not get off so easily as this Mount Holly man who got his sentence suspended pending good behavior. Not all court would look at the matter in the same light of leniency as did the justice who heard this recent case. Therefore, it behooves the cider drinkers—hard cider drinkers—to indulge in moderation, if at all. It is a backwoods substitute for poor whiskey, and a poor one at that.

other election to-day that the citizens of Barre have perhaps overlooked the causes for such a smoothly conducted course of events. Eliminating, for the present, the contributory causes, we have the main reason for the satisfactory conditions in a city council whose aims have been centered on giving the city as good an administration as it was possible for them to see it, a council which was willing to recognize the individual opinions of the members and then analyze and finally amalgamate them into the best methods to be pursued. This tolerance of the opinions of one another has been accountable for the great measure of harmony that has prevailed for the year past and it has been, in consequence, accountable for the successful administration of affairs. Petty bickerings and jealousies have been subordinated to the common purpose to an unusual extent this year; and although there have been individual opinions they have not been adhered to so tenaciously as to disrupt the harmonious action of the council.

That the results of the year's work are generally satisfactory will be conceded by most of our citizens who have followed the course of affairs from last March to the present month; and The Times takes this opportunity to voice the sentiment of the municipality in recognition of the faithful, painstaking efforts of the city council as a whole, mayor and aldermen. We should also be assured of a continuance of the same policy during the year to come, as a majority of the council will have retained their positions either by holding over or by re-election. The citizens look for another year of progress.

Bostons in First Practice.

Not Springs, Ark., March 2.—The Boston Americans held their first practice session yesterday morning. "Nuf Ced" McGreevy presented McConnell a diamond ring, prior to the workout, for the best base-running record for last season. Jake Stahl joined the squad in time for the afternoon session.

CURRENT COMMENT

Can't See The Need Yet.

Gov. Prouty has appointed H. H. Blanchard as judge of the municipal court of Springfield and we have no quarrel with the appointment. We are still of the opinion that Springfield could have administered justice with as great a degree of efficiency without the municipal court. We shall expect that the defenders of the measure will be ready to show at the end of the year just what the establishment of the court has saved the town of Springfield and the state of Vermont. If the municipal court shows a saving in the administration of justice we are willing to be convinced of the fact. We hope that it will be so. The general opinion throughout the state, however, is that these municipal judgments are established for the purpose of taking care of some favored party and to pay some political debt. To justify the establishment of these municipal courts even the first year must show that the town and state have been saved expense. We certainly hope that this will be the case.—Springfield Reporter.

STUDYING THE BIBLE

To Find Out About "Hell"—Another Communication.
 Editor, Barre Daily Times: Dear Sir: I have read with much interest the several letters during the past week about "Hell." I certainly cannot agree with those who claim it to be a place of eternal torment for the wicked, because, in looking at the various scriptures, I see that the righteous as well as the wicked go there. Jacob says, Gen. 37:35, "I will go down into (Sheol) Hell; (so translated 31 times) or the grave unto my son mourning." Also in Gen. 42:38, "Ye shall bring my gray hairs with sorrow to Sheol, Hell or the grave." Job said, "Oh, that Thou wouldst hide me in Sheol, or Hell or grave." Job 14:13, "Palms 16:16, 'Thou wilt not leave my soul in Hell (Sheol)'. Peter speaks of this in Acts 2:27-34 and says 'David said in this before spoke of the resurrection thing this before spoke of the resurrection of Christ.' His soul was not left in Hades, 31 verse. Notice, he says David is both dead and buried and his sepulchre (something that David possesses) is with us unto this day." and the 34 verse David is not ascended into Heaven. No, he is still in Sheol. There is no work nor device nor knowledge nor wisdom in Sheol, Hell, the grave. Eccl. 9:10.

WOMAN SENDS WIRELESS.

Only Female Operator Excels Men in Sending Messages.

New York, March 2.—Miss Anna A. Nevins of 401 West Fifty-seventh street is said to be the only woman wireless telegraph operator in the world. She sits day after day on the roof of a New York hotel sending and receiving messages through the air to ships at sea. She is only 22 years old, but has mastered the methods of the wireless so well that her employers say she is far superior to many of the men operators.
 Her little office is 280 feet above the ground and from 8 o'clock each morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon she is on duty. She is largely busy with commercial messages for the guests of the hotel, and the merchants and other business men in the neighborhood.
 "Yes, I understand I am the only woman wireless operator in the world," said Miss Nevins, "but it probably will not be very long before other women take up the work. Why not? It is nothing so very wonderful—only unusual. I learned telegraphy two years ago. It is interesting work, and I like it very much. Any interesting messages outside of business ones? Heaps of them. Love messages, too."

Miss Nevins is said to have a wireless romance herself. Her fiancé is reported to be the wireless operator on one of the big ocean liners; and whenever that ship is in "talking distance" of New York she spends a few minutes exchanging greetings with him.

Like the other operators of the wireless company, Miss Nevins wears a blue uniform during working hours.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Call of The Wild" Comes to Barre Next Friday Evening.

Mr. Franklyn Woodruff, the eminent actor, reaches that pinnacle to which his artistic acting aspires in his new piece, in James K. Hackett's New York success "Call of The Wild."

It is a rare treat in his inimitable portrayal of John Ermine, the scout. His lines are along the same as he had with other big productions. When he wanders on the stage in his classical manner, he impresses with the absolute naturalness of his presence, that of a cultured actor. His conception of his part is little of the remarkable.
 "Call of The Wild" is one of those stirring dramas of the early days on the borders of civilization in which a sweet story is woven from and tells a story of true love.

It allows one to settle comfortably into an orchestra chair to smile broadly at the while. All the good that is in a man comes to the surface. It is the pure old soul triumphing in the end by his very trust and honesty. It is the fundamental principle of genuine success and happiness that one sees explained.

Mr. Woodruff, as John Ermine the scout, is the soul center of the play and the interest of the play is never taken from the audience. At the opera house Friday, March 5th.

St. Peter's Church.

This church is not only a real landmark. Astronomers say that if there were a building of the same dimensions on the moon we could easily see it with our modern telescopes. It is also, in a manner, one of Time's great mile-stones, of which some trace will probably remain till the very end of the world's life. Its more name associates it for ever with the existence of Christianity from the earliest time. Its very defects are destined to be as lasting as its beauties, and its mighty faults are more imposing than the small perfection of the Greeks. The genius of the Greeks absorbed the world's beauty into itself, distilled its perfection, and gave humanity its most subtle quintessence. That is the secret of the monstrous element in all the Romans built, and that supernatural giantism showed itself almost for the last time in the building of Saint Peter's. When the Latin race had reached its great development, but was itself about to be humbled. Superb views of Ancient and Modern Rome will be presented by Edwin J. Hadley at the opera house next Saturday, matinee and night.

SOUTH CABOT

Rose Boudry has returned to her work at Lyle Tuckers at Marshfield.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cassidy visited at the home of L. J. Eastman last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Houghton visited at the home of W. O. Southwick Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Kellogg of Attleboro, Mass., called at W. O. Southwick's last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Loveland of Attleboro, N. H., are visiting friends in this place.

Mrs. Wilbur Wheeler and Miss Glenn Little visited at Harry Tibbets at Marshfield last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jock are rejoicing over the birth of a son, born last Sunday morning. Mother and son are doing nicely.

W. C. Hall of Marshfield and Albert Whitcomb of Williamstown were in South Cabot last Friday in the interests of forming a grange in Marshfield.

The South Cabot boys played the Marshfield 2nd Saturday night. The Marshfield boys worked hard and gained the victory; the score was 21 to 16. After the dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Sonnie Adams furnished music on the gramophone.

A very successful term of school taught by Grace L. Snow of Putnamville closed last Friday, with an exhibition in the evening. The program consisted of recitations, dialogues, a play and a paper. The prize, which was offered to the one who attained the highest rank in studies and scholarship was awarded to Maggie Houghton.

The school presented the teacher with a miniature set. Those having no marks, tardy or absent were Mildred Scribner, Clyde Clifford, Hollis Phillips.

MONTPELIER

The Colburn Clothing company of Northfield, with a capital stock of $10,000, organized to manufacture and sell clothing in Northfield, Vt., yesterday.

The creditors of Dornika & Michler, the contractors who built the dam for the Barre & Montpelier Traction and Power company, met yesterday morning in the office of Lord & Carleton. J. W. Carver and J. F. Higgins of Barre, B. E. Bailey and H. M. O'Dell of this city were appointed to examine some of the details of this bankruptcy firm and to report their findings at the next meeting of the creditors.

G. E. Doten is interviewing the farmers who bring their milk and cream to Montpelier every morning for shipment by express to Boston to find out whether it will be a paying venture for him to put on a team to collect this milk. The contractors who operate the milk car which runs every day are endeavoring to increase the shipments.

WRANGLE OVER WITNESS.

Attorneys in Carmack Case Fight as to Doctor's Testimony.

Nashville, Tenn., March 2.—There was the usual large crowd yesterday at the trial of Col. D. B. Cooper, Robin J. Cooper and John D. Cooper, charged with the murder of ex-United States Senator E. W. Carmack.

As soon as court opened, the jury was sent out and Dr. McPherson Glasgow came into the room. It was then stated that a few days after the death of Mr. Carmack the state had employed Dr. Glasgow to make an autopsy. Dr. Glasgow had stated to counsel for the defense that personally he had no objection to giving counsel the result of his examination, but that as he had been employed by the state's attorneys he did not feel that it would be right to give the defense these results. He therefore declined to talk to them about the matter. Attorney-General McCann objected. He said that the object of the request was to ascertain facts that the state possessed. General Washington, representing the defendants, said that they did not know what Dr. Glasgow knows, but they wished to speak to him regarding the autopsy. The state had closed its testimony in chief without calling the doctor to the stand.

Judge Hart ruled in favor of the motion of the defendants' attorney. Counsel for the state said they would protest in every way possible against such action.

It is understood that Dr. Glasgow's conclusion from the autopsy is that Mr. Carmack was instantly killed by the first bullet that hit him, and that therefore Robin Cooper's wounds must have been inflicted previously. This would make Carmack the aggressor and clear the defendants, according to their attorneys. After the attorneys on each side had conferred, Attorney-General McCann announced that if the defendant's counsel would agree to pay the fee given Dr. Glasgow for his services and then decide as to whether or not he would be placed on the stand, they would not object.

This proposition was accepted by counsel for the defense, and Dr. Glasgow retired to consult with them.

Pope's Condition Not Serious.

Rome, March 2.—The indisposition of the pope continues, but it did not prevent him from arising yesterday morning and working for several hours in his library. The attending physicians maintain that the suspension of audiences was brought about chiefly because of hoarseness, and they expect that his illness will be entirely recovered in a few days.
